

Rubric, College Essay 2014

So, to summarize our CEBC assessment conversation, I want to create a balance between completion, recognition of beautiful work, and accountability (which, in this case, exists in the realm of college acceptance). Because of this, here is a small, weird looking rubric that I hope will balance all of these pieces effectively.

This assignment will be worth 20 points, and be placed in the “Summative” column of your grade book.

Completion If an essay is complete, it will receive 10 points automatically. If it is less than complete, it will receive less, based on the percentage completed.	10 points
Originality This will be measured out of 5 points, based on vivid details, fresh word choice, and risk taking.	5	4	3	2	1
Refinement and Beauty This section includes spelling, grammar, punctuation, paragraphing, and overall freedom from error.	5	4	3	2	1
